"15 years of practice with spray paint in classic graffiti led me to realize the uniqueness of an aerosol can of paint as art tool. Use the effect of spray paint in the space and then transfer to a canvas achieving the result from the sublimation of emotional subconscious flow through color and movement of the paint."

One of the first graffiti writers on former USSR area with numerous of outdoor murals, stencils and participation in many international street art events traveling around from West to East Europe and Asia.

From graffiti letter writing to non-figurative abstract art work moved in 2010. First experiment in Hong Kong on wall than further on canvases in his Moscow studio. Alex Kuznetsov discovered the pure passion of exchange emotions through artworks by color and expressive movements over surface in lines using different spray caps technique.

"I Believe that not only figurative art is possible to establish the dialogue between artist and viewer. Abstract is a way to avoid boundaries and guides in understanding an art."
